

years of the twentieth century, this book will appeal to you.

The denouement comes as it does in all books, with a twist! It's less a whodunit and more a who(didn't)dunit. Overall, very enjoyable.

The Great Hot Air Balloon Adventure

Amelia, aged two and a half, loved this book! She asked for it to be read to her three times in the space of 30 minutes for her bedtime story. She loved the bright colours of the pictures, and also pointed out things when her mummy was reading it. Amelia was very engrossed in the book, and laughed at certain points too.

The only thing Amelia's mummy found was the font was a little bit tricky to read in places, and Amelia herself wouldn't be able to read it until she was a little older.

Both Amelia and her mummy really enjoyed reading it, and thought it was nice to read something a bit different.
